George Stephenson High School is a fully inclusive school that ensures all students achieve their potential personally, socially, emotionally, physically and educationally. At George Stephenson High School we recognise that all of our students are different and as such have a wide range of learning needs. The provision for students with additional learning needs is coordinated via the Learning Support Centre, which is led and managed by the SENCO, Rebecca Bennett. The SENCO is supported by the Learning Support Centre Manager, Jacci Fuller, and an experienced team of Higher Level Teaching Assistants, Learning Support Assistants and Cover Supervisors.

Our Local Offer lets you understand how we support students with special educational needs and disabilities.

We consult with students and their families on our local offer by meeting with parents regularly through SEND reviews, sending out questionnaires prior to annual reviews, regular phone contact, transition days, parents' evenings, informal coffee mornings and meetings prompted by concerns raised through external professionals, Guidance Managers, parents or teachers.

Supporting students with Special Educational Needs/Disabilities and their families

Children are identified as having special educational needs when their progress has slowed or stopped for a noteworthy period and the interventions put in place have not resulted in improvements.

We will let families know about any concerns about a student's learning by contacting the parent via the SENCO (Miss Bennett) or the Learning Support Centre Manager (Miss Fuller).

In the first instance this will be in the form of a telephone call or email, which would be to invite parents/carers in for a meeting to discuss the progress of the student and to agree steps that could be taken to support the child if there were concerns about a lack of progress.

Special educational provision is provision that is different from or additional to that normally available to students of the same age, which is designed to help children and young people with SEN or disabilities to access the National Curriculum at school or to study at college.

When a student is identified as having special educational needs, we support their development and progress in a number of ways:

- All teaching staff recognise that there is a wide range of student ability and provide appropriately differentiated work. This involves ensuring access to the curriculum through the delivery of suitable courses, programmes of study and modifications to the National Curriculum.
- Curriculum Leaders have a key role in ensuring that this takes place and that an appropriate range of teaching and assessment material is available to meet the needs of all levels of ability.
- All teachers contribute to the assessment, monitoring, recording and reporting of progress of students with special educational needs.
- Subject teachers access the SEND register and Pupil Passports (CPP's) via the internal desktop.
- Reference to Pupil Passports will need to be made when teachers input up to date evidence of student progress towards their targets prior to SEND reviews. This evidence is collated and forms an important part of the review process and future target setting.
- All departments will have a special educational needs agreement which reflects the school's policy.
- It is the responsibility of each Curriculum Leader to ensure that all students have access to the National Curriculum and that, when necessary, this is delivered in a modified form as required to meet the needs of individual students.
- Teachers will recognise the wide range of student abilities and departmental schemes of work should reflect awareness of the need to provide appropriate work.
- Each department will provide differentiated work for the full range of ability.
- Teachers will be aware of the importance of identifying students who have special educational needs and of referring them to the SENCO.
- Time will be allocated during departmental meetings so that Additional Educational Needs (AEN) is a regular item.
- All teachers, where appropriate, will contribute to the identification, assessment, monitoring, recording and reporting of progress of students with special educational needs.
- The monitoring of progress of SEND students is the responsibility of all of the teachers of these students.
- Where support staff are involved, they are expected to contribute to the monitoring process in the form of Pupil Passport tracking.
- PPM's provide information, targets and strategies; they should be used by teachers to inform their planning and teaching.
- Support staff are placed where they are needed throughout the school to ensure student progress, independence and value for money.
- Teaching Assistant support in class is allocated on the basis of student need and entitlement; this is not one to one support.
- Priority is given to providing support for students with a Education and Health Care Plan. For most students, the need for support is greatest in core subjects.
- The primary role of Teaching Assistants is to enable access to the curriculum, facilitate independent learning, and promote inclusion.
- Teaching Assistants can perform a wide range of duties within the classroom to scaffold learning.
- Teachers should maximise the effectiveness of Teaching Assistant support within lessons by:

- Noting the role of the Teaching Assistant in their planning
- Providing the Teaching Assistant with schemes of work and lesson plans
- Discussing lessons and students' individual learning needs
- Communicating with the Teaching Assistant through meetings or by e-mail

Any queries or requests regarding support in class should be addressed to Miss Rebecca Bennett, SENCO.
